THE WEST KINGDOM CEREMONY BOOK

Revision Date: Winter, AS XLII (2007-2008)

You hold in your hands a product of labor and love. This Ceremony book is aimed at a variety of people, Heralds and non-Herald, Royalty, and non-Royalty alike.

For the Heralds, this is a useful tool — If the King and Queen (or Prince and Princess) drop in unexpectedly to your local group and want to give an award, it is useful to have the ceremonies to hand. If you are interested in being a court herald, you should periodically be going back to this book and refreshing your memory on how the ceremonies work ...

For the Royalty, here is a complete set of all the standard ceremonies as currently practiced in the West Kingdom at Kingdom and Principality level.

For Heralds throughout the Known World, this may be a source of information on awards given in this Kingdom, as well as a resource for writing ceremonies.

NOTES

A few notes about the layouts of this book. There are several “Tables of Contents” — since this book is so large, it was easier to break it down into booklets. For example, the West Kingdom Ceremonies section has a Table of Contents all its own, as do the Principalities ...

PAGE NUMBERING

The page numbering works along the same lines as the breakdown for Tables of Contents. All of the sections start at Page 1, set off by a letter. The West Kingdom Ceremonies start with W.1, the Principality of the Mists starts with M.1 and so on.

ICONS AND OTHER GRAPHICAL BITS

There are various methods used to denote parts of ceremonies. There have been some problems with recent versions of software used to generate the documents, and some of these icons may go away over time. These are important for the Herald and the Royalty to note:

The CROWN is used to denote that the King or Prince has lines or stage directions

The ROSE is used to denote that the Queen or Princess has lines or stage directions.

The STAR is used to denote optional sections or notes to the herald.

Optional sections of a ceremony are placed in “grey scale text boxes” like the following:

★ OPTIONAL

This is how an optional section of a ceremony might look ... some of these are fairly large, taking up a full page or more!

“Multiple Choice” options in the middle of text looks like: [Master | Mistress]

CEREMONY NOTES

Some of the Ceremonies of this book have an introduction page or two, explaining details about the ceremony for both the use of the Heralds and the Royalty. These are particularly important for “Coronation” and “Investiture of the Crown Prince and Princess”. Most of the other ceremonies have a PREPARATION section describing an award, what scrolls or other props are necessary (if any), and what tokens are needed (if any).

FONTS AND OTHER TECHNICAL DETAILS

For those interested ... the primary font used in this version of the Ceremony Book is “Arial” (the one that ships with Windows ...) at 10, 11, 12, etc. points (for most of the text). The Crown character comes from a shareware font called “Griffin Dingbats”, the Rose is from “Wingdings” (also ships with Windows), the Star character is one that comes with Word 2007.

THANKS

The original book was created toward the end of the tenure of Caiomhain O’Fiodhbhra as Vesper Principal Herald, with help from Alison von Markhem, Frederick of Holland, Ellis O’Boirne, and Hilary of Serendip. We had quite an interesting afternoon looking at ceremonies. The Principality Heralds at the time were very helpful as well.

This edition was started in the summer of 1997 and modifications have continued periodically as required by the Vesper Principal Herald, the Banner Herald, the Principality Heralds, and/or the Royalty of the Kingdom of the West.

The current version (the one you are looking at) was done in Word 2007. It was designed to use tables and styles, allowing for simple changes of font for specific parts of a ceremony (Herald, Royalty, etc.) throughout a document.

Please believe I remain,

In Service to the Crown and Kingdom of the West

★ CLOSING COURT, KING AND QUEEN

Herald: Your Majesties, do You have any further business?

Assuming the answer is negative:

There being no further business before this court,
Long Live the King! (the populace echos)
Long Live the Queen! (the populace echos)

If there is visiting Royalty, or if there are Princes and/or Princesses, Heirs to Principalities, etc. – (see below):

Long Live _____ and _____ of _____! (Populace echos — repeat as necessary)

Visiting Royalty or not, Princes and Princesses or not, do one the following:

A) No Princes/Princesses in Court OR ALL of the Western Princes/Princesses in Court:

Long Live the Princes and Princesses of the West, Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah)

B) Some Princes/Princesses in Court:

Long Live the other Princes and Princesses of the West, Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah)

NOTE: If the Oerthan Prince and Princess are the only Prince and Princess not in court, cheer them by name, rather than “Long Live the Other ...” – it flows better.

Make sure you run the last line together, so the populace does not start to repeat your words!

★ CLOSING COURT, PRINCE AND PRINCESS

Herald: Your Highnesses, do You have any further business?

Assuming the answer is negative:

There being no further business before this court,
Long Live the Prince! (the populace echos)
Long Live the Princess! (the populace echos)
Long Live the King! (the populace echos)
Long Live the Queen! (the populace echos)

If there is visiting Royalty (including Princes and/or Princesses):

Long Live _____ and _____ of _____! (Populace echos — repeat as necessary)

Visiting Royalty or not, Princes and Princesses or not, do the following:

Long Live the other Princes and Princesses of the West, Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah) Hip, Hip! (hurrah)

Make sure you run the last line together, so the populace does not start to repeat your words!
